

Instant traffic and weather is an example of XM trying to give the best service possible to its listeners. The NAB would do better to improve its service than to try to stifle competition.